

Michigan

Global Awareness Consortium

Nov. 8, 2012
7:00-8:30 p.m.
Oleson Center: A/B
NMC, Traverse City.

PRESENTS

Turkey: Its Changing Social & Political Landscape

On Thursday, November 8th, the Michigan Global Awareness Consortium offers the second presentation of its fall series. We are pleased to welcome Professor Kerri Finlayson, who teaches anthropology and sociology at North Central Michigan College (NCMC), and Professor Ken Winter, who teaches political science and journalism at NCMC & Ferris State University. Both Finlayson and Winter recently returned from Istanbul and Ankara, Turkey. Their trip, sponsored by Ohio State University and the Niagara Foundation, allowed them to participate in conversations about revolutionary changes in the Turkish society. Please join us on November 8th to hear these distinguished researchers discuss the developing social, economic, religious, and political dynamics in Turkey.

FREE and open to the public.

Additional information, contact
Amjad Khan, Dept. of Economics
Social Science Academic Area
Northwestern Michigan College
Phone: (231) 995-1291
E-mail: akhan@nmc.edu

Sponsored by MGAC (Michigan Global Awareness Consortium) - a group of four community colleges (Bay College, Mid Michigan CC, North Central Michigan College, and Northwestern Michigan College) dedicated to bringing global issues, international opportunities, and information to their campuses.